

WORK VISA

A work visa is a permit that gives you the legal right to work and live in a country other than your country of birth, citizenship or residence. As a foreigner, it is expected that you have to meet several criteria that would qualify you for a work visa. It should be noted that different countries have different conditions for work visa.

GENERAL GUIDELINES TO NOTE WHILE PREPARING FOR WORK VISA

Please note that failure to adhere to these rules might put your continuous stay in that country at risk:

1. You would need to secure employers who are willing to sponsor your application.
2. After arriving at the country, you cannot switch employers without informing the immigration authorities
3. If it is necessary that you change employers, ensure that it is in the same industry.
4. You must not be without employment so as not to lose your visa.
5. In the event you lose your job, you have few months to find another job and re-apply for work visa.

COUNTRIES WITH HIGH RECORD OF WORK VISA APPLICATIONS

1. UK Work Visa: The United Kingdom is one of the countries that are highly sought by immigrants seeking to apply for Work Visa. The most popular visa available for foreigners is the Tier 2 General Visa.
2. Canada Work Visa: There are diverse pathways to apply for Work Visa in Canada. The most sought after is the Express Entry Pathway and the work permit.
3. US Work Visa: The most common Work Visa available to foreigners in the US is the H1B work visa. Qualifying for this entails being in a specific profession like Accounting, Architecture, Tech Specialists, Medical science and so on.
4. Australia Work Visa: Australia provides both temporary and permanent Work Visas. However, most of the time, the employer has to submit a separate application on the applicant's behalf.

DURATION

UK work visa is between 4-6 weeks processing.

Canada work visa is between 3-4 months

US work visa is between 3-4 months

Australia is between 3-4 months

For further assistance on how to start your work visa application, contact us via:
info@jproyalquestconsultancy.com